

Inflammation of BladderCompletely Cured

Interesting Story of How Mrs. Burris Was Relieved of Intense Suffering.

"Last November I was taken with inflammation of the bladder. I was prescribed for by my doctor, but felt no better and became very much discouraged. I was feeble and emaciated.

"I noticed an advertisement of Warner's Safe Cure and decided to give the medicine a fair trial. I did, and was entirely cured. Many thanks for your valuable medicine, which saved me so much suffering. I shall always speak a good word for it."—Mrs. B. Burris, Battleground, Wash.

Warner's Safe Cure for the kidneys, liver and bladder is put up in 50c and $1.00 sizes, and sold by all druggists.

Warner's Safe Pills for constipation and biliousness are 25c a package.

A sample bottle of Warner's Safe Cure and sample box of Warner's Safe Pills will be sent free to any one sending name and address and mentioning the Richmond Sunday Times-Dispatch. Warner's Safe Cure Co., Rochester, N. Y.

ROCKBRIDGE ALUMA DELIGHTFUL RESORT

While Rest of Country Has Sweltered, Its Breezes Have Been Cool and Invigorating.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

The Rockbridge Alum Springs, July 29.—The Rockbridge Alum this year has proven to be a most delightful resort viewed with special reference to its mineral waters, its select crowds of visitors, its magnificent surroundings and its delightfully cool weather.

In contrast of visitors this summer, as in previous summers, are representatives from old Virginia families from Richmond, Lynchburg, Norfolk, Petersburg, Danville, Charlottesville, Staunton, Lexington, and elsewhere in Virginia, and from Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, from North and South Carolina, Kentucky and other States.

Situated in a wild section of country, with mountains and hills, valleys and cultivated fields, stretches of sward and beautiful driveways, the Rockbridge Alum is a delightful place for quiet and repose, and yet within easy reach by rail or automobile of the Natural Bridge, Gordons Pass and Lexington, where sleep the remains of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson and the seat of Washington and Lee University and Virginia Military Institute.

During the recent heated term, while the country was sweltering with the thermometer around the hundred mark in many cities and country places, this resort was cool and pleasant. The thermometer here never registered above 84 degrees during the day, and the night have been so pleasant as to require blankets.

Golf links, pool rooms, bowling alleys, bathing pool, dancing and tennis offer diversion to the visitors.

Beginning August 1st, the summer school of the Virginia Military Institute will continue here for a month, under the direction of Major R. Barclay Poague, of the faculty, assisted by other instructors. Thirty or more cadets are expected to attend. Their presence will add much to the gaiety of the place and Rockbridge Alum will be unique in having more young men than young women.

THREE DOCTORS SEEK NOMINATION

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Wynders, Va., July 29.—In a recent news item from Carroll county it is stated that there are three candidates for the Republican nomination for the House of Delegates, and that they are all physicians. This recalls to mind an interesting bit of history in connection with the activity of physicians for the House of Delegates in the counties of Nelson and Amherst, where, for the first time in many years, no doctors have entered the Democratic primaries for the House.

As far back as 1870 Nelson acquired the habit of favoring the country doctor for the Legislature, and from that time down to the present he has been almost constantly in evidence, either as a winner or as an unsuccessful candidate.

The late Dr. William L. Williams was twice elected, though not consecutively. Following him came Dr. A. R. Fitzpatrick, who died about three years ago, and who had served six terms. Dr. Fitzpatrick was first elected in the early seventies. He skipped several terms, but was elected again a number of times in the eighties. His last service was in the sessions of 1897-1898 and 1900-1901. He was then defeated by Dr. John C. Everett, who had served three terms, and who since his election, Dr. Fitzpatrick made two unsuccessful races. So it will be seen that doctors have been running for the House in Nelson almost constantly since the days of Reconstruction. Conditions have been similar in Amherst. For more than a decade physicians have been running in that county in the House of Delegates.

Dr. R. B. Ware had three terms, beginning in 1857-58. He was succeeded by Dr. J. C. Everett, who served two terms. The present member, Dr. J. C. Myers, has served two terms, though he is not standing for re-election. Dr. J. C. Myers is a candidate for the House in Amherst this year. Three are farmers, while one is a lawyer. In Nelson one lawyer and two farmers are running, but in the counties long-established custom has been broken, and no doctor appears in either list.

BAPTISTS CLOSE ANNUAL MEETING

Effort to Rearrange Pastoral Fields More Compactly Is Defeated.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Lancaster, Va., July 29.—The Rappahannock Baptist Association, which held its annual session this week with Gettysburg Church, in Shenandoah county, of which the Rev. E. L. Hardcastle is pastor, was organized by electing the Rev. Wayland F. Dunaway, D. D., moderator; the Rev. G. V. Bradley, clerk, and William Campbell, treasurer. The Rev. S. B. Overton, of King and Queen county, who had been appointed to preach the introductory sermon, was detained at home by sickness in his family, and the request of the association, the Rev. Mr. Campbell, assistant editor of the Religious Herald, took his place, and preached a fine sermon on "The Larger Life."

Fifty-three of the fifty-nine churches in the association were represented, and the reports from nearly all the churches were encouraging. On the second morning the Rev. George William Beale, D. D., of Westmoreland, preached an able doctrinal sermon on "Believer's Baptism," which is to be published later in the Religious Herald.

An animated discussion arose over a resolution offered by Walter Ryland, of Middlesex, that the association should carry out the recommendation of the State Mission Board by appointing a committee to arrange the churches in more compact pastoral fields. Both sides presented able arguments, but when the vote was taken the Baptists of the Rappahannock Association, true to their traditions of local self-government and a watchful jealousy of outside interference or dictation, voted down the resolution by a decided majority.

Just before the close of the session attention was called to the fact that the Rev. Alexander F. King, of King county, an old and honored member of the association, was ill in a Richmond hospital. Prayers were offered for his recovery, and a sum of $50.00 was raised and sent to him as a tribute of love and esteem from his brethren in the Rappahannock Association.

The next meeting of the association will be held with Matthews Baptist Church, in Matthews county, beginning on Tuesday after the fourth Sunday in July, 1912.

The Rev. J. P. Essex, of Middlesex, was appointed to preach the doctrinal sermon at the next meeting of the association. The proceedings were characterized by concord and brotherly love. Large crowds attended every day, the weather was delightful, and the hospitality of the people of the community unsurpassed. In fact, it was remarked that the tables spread for dinner every day at the grove around the church had never been surpassed for the abundance and quality of the good things they contained.

MAY MAKE EFFORT TO CAPTURE MOORE

Escaped Murderer Believed to Be Hiding in Nelson County.

ECHO OF SENSATIONAL CASE

Was Released From Jail Soon After Being Condemned to Death.

Lynchburg, Va., July 29.—The report from Nelson county to the effect that John Moore, the condemned murderer of Frank Howl, in that county, is hiding in that county, and that he has never been further from the county jail since his execution there, has been taken from the county jail, confirms a belief that has been held here since the murderer was taken from jail. The case is one of the most intensely interesting of its nature in the annals of the courts of the Old Dominion. Howl's wife, who since has left her native country, according to her own admissions, had the trial of Moore, had maintained intimate relations with Moore, and the motive for the murder was to have him out of the way. Early last summer Howl died under mysterious circumstances, and after burial the body was disinterred and traces of poison were found in his stomach. Moore died, and Mrs. Howl was arrested as an accomplice. Later, Moore returned and gave himself up. Upon trial he was promptly convicted of murder, but Mrs. Howl was acquitted. The trial of Moore ended September 3, and he was sentenced to be electrocuted in November, but on the night of October 23 last a mob composed of nearly a hundred men swooped down on the county jail at Lexington some time after midnight and Moore was taken away on horseback.

There was no doubt but the man was liberated by people from the western section of the county, where the crime was committed, and it was understood at the time that Moore was liberated because Mrs. Howl was not convicted jointly with him of her husband's murder.

The mob cut the telephone lines leading to that section of the county, and no arrests ever were made. A special grand jury probed the rescue, but could throw no light upon it, despite the fact that it probably had a number of the rescuers before it for examination.

Some effort was made to locate the fugitive, but fear of trouble in the mountainous section, coupled with the belief among the county authorities that Moore had left the county, caused the hunt to be given up after a very short time.

Shortly after Mrs. Howl and Moore left the county, and the matter was looked upon as a closed incident.

While it is not known here what the Nelson officials will do in light of this new development, it is not believed that an effort will be made to capture Moore.

One of the peculiar phases of the case was the necessity of removing Moore from the county to prevent mob violence after he gave Howl had been poisoned by moonshiners of that section. Sentiment then was against Moore, but when the jury convicted Moore and failed to do so in Mrs. Howl's case, these same people, it is believed, liberated the man who was condemned to die in the electric chair at Richmond.

May Not Rebuild Academy.

The rebuilding of the Academy of Music, which was destroyed by fire on April 29, is a question that is uppermost in the mind of the theatre-goers of the city, but at present there seems to be no way to restore the playhouse. The theatre was erected in 1905 by a company, which was formed out of public capital, rather than an investment, for the cost was too heavy to mean a return upon the money paid out by the shareholders. The company carried a debt of about $14,000 at the time of the fire, and when this is settled the insurance will leave only about $1,000, together with the site at Sixth and Main Streets, as assets. Since the fire a number of conditions have arisen which seem to preclude the ability of the company to rebuild unless it is done by a popular subscription, and it is not believed that this could be accomplished again after a lapse of only a few years. It is certain that the city will be without a playhouse this winter, other than vaudeville.

Slow Work on Station.

The Southern Railway is getting a very slow headway in its preparation for the construction of its $50,000 passenger station, which is to be located in Kemper Street near the depot, where the new station is to be located in the hope of securing a rearrangement of the street railway system, so as to put two car lines by the new depot. The new station is to be located on the new route through Lynchburg, fully two miles from the Union Station, formerly used exclusively by the Southern for its passenger trains.

Park for Colored People.

The Finance Committee of the City Council is at work on a proposition looking to the purchase of a plot of land in the negro section of the city, which is designed for a public park for the colored people of the city. When this is brought about, it is the purpose of the city fathers to make beautiful Miller Park exclusively for
